Bryce Boepple moved from Fargo, ND to Omaha, NE after he graduated from North Dakota State University. He currently works for Aerotek Staffing Agency as a job placement agent. bboepple@aerotek.com 402-997-7607

Bryce Boepple posts on the Discord chat servers of Identity Evropa as BryceB-ND where he distributed flyers and organized official Identity Evropa events like the July 15, 2017 Midwest chapters group participation at the Warrior Dash competition in Tekamah, NE.

Boepple is tasked with placing precarious workers in temporary job assignments. This calls into question if he is discriminating against qualified workers getting temp assignments because he holds racist ideas.

Goy is a derogatory term for non Jews, which affirms the views some have that there's a Jewish media agenda to demoralize non Jews.

Boepple memorialized a notorious Holocaust denier when he died of old age in 2017. Ernst Zündel was born in Germany and hid out in Canada so he could be a professional "historical revisionist" in regards to the Jewish Holocaust.

Bryce Boepple wears the black sun or sonnenrad of esoteric Nazi Germany. The same symbol was worn by the Christchurch mosque shooter on his body armor as he indiscriminately killed 49 Muslims during prayers. Boepple lifts weights at Omaha Barbell.

Boepple said "after we've dealt with our demographic issues, we have a long road ahead of us fixing the lifestyles of your average white male." He also spoke supportively of Lauren Southern's "Great Replacement" propaganda/documentary, which was referenced at length in the manifesto of the Christchurch mosque shooter.

Boepple said in a tweet "National Socialism shatters the left-right dichotomy does it not?" This is the often cited claim that because nazis had "socialism" in their party name that they were a synthesis of nationalism and socialism.

Boepple retweets neo-Nazis quoting Hitler's book Mein Kampf and photos of the Third Reich, and he curated a YouTube playlist of Nazi speeches and songs. He is proficient in German and believes that makes him the ubermensch Aryan neo-Nazi.

Excerpt from Mein Kampf. NSDAP debated opposition at rallies. Communists attacked them, NSDAP defended themselves. Antifa are COMMUNISTS! pic.twitter.com/sYWQmAZtWu

We chose red for our posters after particular and careful deliberation, our intention being to irritate the Left, so as to arouse their attention and tempt them to come to our meetings – if only in order to break them up – so that in this way we got a chance of talking to the people.

In those years' it was indeed a delightful experience to follow the constantly changing tactics of our perplexed and helpless adversaries. First of all they appealed to their followers to ignore us and keep away from our meetings. Generally speaking this appeal was heeded. But, as time went on, more and more of their followers gradually found their way to us and accepted our teaching. Then the leaders became nervous and uneasy. They clung to their belief that such a development should not be ignored for ever, and that terror must be applied in order to put an end to it.

Bryce Boepple rationalized anyone could have made the same decision James Alex Fields made on August 12, 2017 when he purposely drove his Dodge Charger into a crowd of counterprotesters. Fields was found guilty of Heather Heyer's murder.

A young kid panicked in a crowd and made a massive mistake. He is having an example made of him. It could have easily have been any one of us who, under bad judgement, took that wrong turn in Charlottesville that day.

Identity Evropa claims it is not like the other violent white nationalist groups because they don't fly a swastika, but the current leader Patrick Casey has "retired" Identity Evropa the same weekend that independent non-profit investigative journalists Unicorn Riot exposed their chats showing the same toxic and violent sentiments as any other active white nationalist or white separatist group. Identity Evropa has rebranded as "American Identity Movement," because it was "held down by baggage accumulated before my tenure," Casey told Philly.com. The new group, according to a news release this week, is focused on "defending America against globalism."

Casey didn't elaborate on the "baggage" that ended Identity Evropa, but the group's members were prominently featured at the "Unite the Right" rally in Charlottesville, and the organization has been named as a defendant in Sines v. Kessler, an ongoing federal lawsuit alleging the group and others conspired to commit crimes of bias and racial hatred at the 2017 rally.

Bryce Boepple was partially exposed while he still lived in North Dakota by a pro-Israeli group that also tracks Palestinian college campus activists, and for that reason we will not link to them.

However, Bryce Boepple in response to their work says "You cant talk your way through a dox. Leftists and Jewish websites will seek to ruin your reputation and stifle your employment opportunities."

The solution to that problem is don't be a neo-Nazi and people won't try to expose your genocidal ideas and violent behavior, Bryce.

Bragging about his white supremacist propaganda flyers making it into the NDSU student newspaper.

White Supremacist Propaganda Found on Campus
Flyers discovered in Minard, others removed

Samuel Caspers
By Sam Caspers

Propaganda posters for a white supremacist group were spotted on North Dakota State's campus a mere week after celebrating Welcoming Week, a nationwide movement encouraging communities to bring together immigrants, refugees and native-born students to raise awareness of the benefits welcoming everyone.

"I found them this past Monday," Mary McCall, assistant professor of English, said. Walking from the staff parking lot to her car in Minard Hall, McCall cut through Retschke Fine Arts Center and glanced at bulletin board next to the coffee shop, quickly identifying the group's logo.

McCall recognized the logo because of correspondence she'd had with faculty at previous institution, Purdue University, where the group had already posted the propaganda.

Their logo can also be seen embroidered on a T-shirt a white supremacist is wearing in a famous photo from the Charlottesville rally.

McCall took photos of the posters before flying Elizabeth Birmingham, Chair of English department at NDSU. Birmingham removed the flyers and resealed the posters to NDSU's equity and equity center, residence life and campus life.

Birmingham said the vice provost's office responded within an hour of the report looking into the situation more in depth.

The flyers belong to Identity Evropa. According to photos tweeted by the white supremacist group, the flyers were posted on multiple bulletin boards around campus including the basement of the West Dining Center, Minard Hall and the Quentin Burdick Building until they were removed.

Other universities have seen similar propaganda flyers from Identity Evropa on their campus this week alone and include Ohio State University, Sacramento State University, Georgia Institute of Technology, Nova Community College, New York University, University of Central Florida and Arizona State University.

At least a dozen other campuses reported sites of similar propaganda flyers during the first week of the current school year and 65 incidents during the 2016-2017 school year, per the Anti-Defamation League (ADL).

The ADL, whose mission is to secure justice and fair treatment to all, calls Identity Evropa "a white supremacist group focused on the preservation of 'white American culture' and (promotes) white European identity."

The group has participated in events organized by other white supremacist groups in protests against Muslims and immigration.

Most notably, Identity Evropa members joined the Unite the Right rallies in Charlottesville in August and displayed banners in Atlanta in support of Trump's repeal of the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals.

The organization is responsible for the "You will not replace us" chant.

Major corporations have taken a stance against the group.

Identity Evropa posted flyers in Minard, Quentin Burdick Building and the basement Dining Center.

Venmo and Visa have deleted the organization's accounts and stopped all payments respectively. Amazon deleted the affiliate store of the group from their site.

Facebook, Twitter and Instagram have deleted most accounts associated with Identity Evropa.

There have been no reports of campus violence since the flyers were removed.
